PARTY REGULARS IN QUANDARY OVER HARMONY PROGRAM

insurgents half way, but that he could not see how any special arrangements could be made to treat one set of republicans any differently than any other, simply because they have formed a majority bloc. He is inclined to leave it to the republican conference to reach in this contest for important places on committees, a breakdown of the seniority rule means a scramble—every man for himself. Agreements and understandings, individual bargains for places, involve indefinite delay. Only a rule that applies equally to all can save a situation like the present.

La Follette Is Ill
Meanwhile, Senator Robert La Follette, leader of the insurgent forces in congress, who wields the greatest influence with the minority bloc inside the republican party in the house, is confined to his home. The report now is that he has influenza, but he has been sequestered so long, and even his friends see so little of him, that it is rumored the senator from Wisconsin is not physically strong enough to be the important factor in congress this year, as his supporters had hoped. He is nearly 70 years old. He has fought legislative battles nearly all his life. He never, however, has had the control of a legislative situation in congress such as he holds today.

Along Extreme Lines
The title of the group which is supporting La Follette will probably be "insurgent republican." There has been a tendency to call them "progressives," but on analysis it will be found that the split is more along "radical" and "extremist lines" than anything else, with the present day conservatives anxious to be known as the party of progress. Indeed, the regulars think the "radicals" have set out to obstruct progress and that if the latter do wish to assist the republican party in making a constructive program, they could select no better tactics than to force congress into chaos and disorganization at the very outset.

Harmony Is Sought
The next few weeks will see determined efforts on the part of the republicans to restore party harmony. The democrats will look on, anxious to take advantage of misplays and dissension on the part of their opponents, but if the radicals believe they will get the entire support of the democratic party they are mistaken, for among the democrats the leaders are inclined to be conservative, and as for tax reduction, they will not be found as extreme as the insurgent republicans.

The situation is a disquieting one on all sides—an unprecedented mix-up analogous only to the rebellion in the house in 1910 over Cannonism. The objection then was that legislation was being blocked by arbitrary rules. Those rules have been changed. The question now arises as to which group is responsible for blocking progress—the regulars or the insurgents. The country will know the answer in less than a fortnight, and the issues of 1924 may be made on the basis of what develops in the immediate future.

LATEST MARKET REPORT

Weekly Livestock Review

CATTLE.—Demand for cattle displayed more life than for several weeks previous, and as a consequence values reacted in an upward trend. At midweek gains of 25c to 50c in native and to 20c in foreign cattle. Plain native steers often showed the most advance. Receipts for the week were 1,000, which is 4774 smaller than the total for the previous week. Local market steers ranged from $11.00 to $12.00, mostly and good head of plain quality, $8.50 to $10.00. Gains of 25c to 75c were noticeable in butcher cattle during the week. Bulk sold from $1.00 to $2.50. With best hogs at about $13.50, the bull market remained steady during the entire week, although demand was at times dull.

Veal calves advanced 75c to $1 and the bulk of vealers closed from $8.50 to $9.00. Stockers and feeders were active, especially on quality stock, which sometimes showed 25c to 50c gains. Prices were largely from $5.50 to $6.50.

Quotations for low grade killing steers and native beef cattle follow:

Busy Man's Sport Page

By FRANK SINCLAIR

JACK O'HARA, who probably knows more about birds, game and fish of southern Wisconsin than the great majority of sportsmen, has come out in a long time. With the growing scarcity of game birds, Jack believes that most hunters are not aware of the identity of what was and what cannot be killed. "I believe that in every digest of the game laws that is issued," says Jack, "much variety of bird should be given in pictures and colors. I believe when a hunter takes out a license he should be put through an examination. If he does not know how to identify the birds, and cannot tell one from another, he should not be given a license. Those who wouldn't shoot a woodcock would think nothing of shooting any species of hawk or owl when they are protected the same as song birds. There is but one of several species of owl that may be shot and that is the great horned owl. Among the hawks there are but three—American goshawk, Cooper's hawk and sharp-shinned hawk—that can be shot out of more than a dozen varieties, but they are killed indiscriminately. The same is true as regards birds such as wood duck, woodcock, bartramian, sandpiper, and several other species of water fowl, which, if they do not receive better protection, will not be long in becoming passenger pigeons. I venture to say that not more than two per cent of all hunters can identify all birds."

THAT IDEA is a pipkin. There will be some, perhaps, who will be against it. Those who will be against it will be those who do not know how to distinguish between birds. And they are just the ones that should be kept from shooting. When a man goes forth with a gun and a bag, he is aiming at a bird that may be shot or at one that is supposed to be protected, that man is doing great harm. It is that kind of shooting that has done so much to exterminate song birds, as well as shooting more than the bag limit.

THE MAN who wouldn't be willing to undergo such an examination is not a sportsman. The man who wouldn't study the pictures of birds is not able to distinguish between them in a menace to future generations in that he doesn't care what he brings down. Naturally, it would make hundreds, and most of us, sit down with their book and do some tail studying. Yet what a marvelous thing it would be. Not only would it be protection, but it would be an education. In the real lovers of the outdoors, it would promote a desire to know more about the birds, to know of their ways and their habits. It would make for a greater appreciation of the value of birds and of their need to mankind, a good that is greater than just killing and eating them or holding them up to brag about. It would teach how they benefit the farmer in eating the vermin and the vermin. This matter of conservation is not one entirely for the musty chambers of science. It should be taught to "polite" conservation commissions and to the public at large. It is essential.

Badgers Have No Home Big 10 Games Next Year

ILLINOI DROPPED; ONLY THREE GAMES GIVEN WISCONSIN

CHICAGO—Without a single western conference game scheduled to be played on its home field at Camp Randall, the University of Wisconsin football team faces an unusual season in 1924. As a result of the conference of coaches here, only three games, Michigan, Minnesota and Chicago, are on the Badger list, all to be played away from home.

Minnesota, also with but three games arranged for, plays two of its contests at Minneapolis. Heavy schedules are arranged for Michigan, Ohio State and Chicago, each with six conference games. Northwestern, Indiana, Purdue, Iowa and Illinois are slated for four contests each in the Big Ten.

A number of feature games, including a contest between Michigan and Illinois at Urbana, Oct. 18, cause the prediction that the coming season is to be even more successful than the past in the Big Ten. The Wisconsin followers were somewhat heartened today with the knowledge that E. C. Geisler, star tackle who was disqualified before the Illinois game on a charge of professionalism, is reinstated and eligible for further conference competition. Faculty athletic representatives voted for reinstatement.

Disagreement grew out of declining to arrange for the conference outdoor track meet, the faculty meeting selecting June 7, which interfered with the national collegiate meet. A special committee was named to settle the question. The indoor swimming meet, set for March 12-14, is to be held at the University of Chicago, the indoor track meet on March 14-15 at Northwestern university and the shooting and tennis tournament at the University of Chicago on May 22, 23 and 24. As an outgrowth of the incident that followed an official ruling in the Wisconsin-Michigan game of this last year, the faculty representatives adopted a resolution urging the selection of men of integrity to officiate at games and declared their rulings, whether agreed with or not, should be supported wholeheartedly.

THIS MAKES "DIFFERENCE"

THREE GAMES AT HOME? Madison—Hope for arranging a suitable home schedule for the 1924 football season for Wisconsin was expressed Monday by Athletic Director F. E. Jones. Director Jones declined to state with what conference teams negotiations are underway. Three conference tilts, with Michigan, Minnesota and Chicago, all to be played on foreign fields, were arranged at the conference meeting in Chicago Saturday. Ohio, Iowa and Northwestern are mentioned as positive opponents for the Badgers.

Rollie's Five Starts U. W.

Madison—Wisconsin will open its basketball schedule here against Milliken college, Decatur, Ill., Dec. 8. It was announced Monday by Dr. McNeill, basketball coach. Arrangements have just been completed for the Milliken game. The Illinois team is coached by Rollie Williams, former Wisconsin football and basketball star.

BRINGING UP FATHER

TAFT, WHITEWATER, MAKES ALL-CONFERENCE

Merrill Taft of Whitewater, University of Wisconsin player, is the unanimous choice of football critics for fullback on this season's all-conference mythical eleven. He is a triple threat man, one of the most valuable in all the Big Ten. It is his three-way ability that has given him the right of way over the hopes of Thomas of Chicago to make all-conference first team this year. Taft will not be eligible to play next fall, which is too bad, for there is not any doubt but he would make all-American with another year of university football. All those picking the honorary elevens give great credit to young Taft for his remarkable work this season on a losing team.

In fact, Taft is of all-American caliber right now. During the past season, the White-water had outkicked every other punter in the conference, not omitting the names of Kipke of Michigan; Britton of Illinois; Ivott of Chicago, and plenty of others.

At times, when Taft's boots were not so good as they might have been, the play could always be traced and it was easy to see where Wisconsin's line did not hold as it should.

Not only was Taft's kicking exceptional, but his ability to carry the ball meant a lot to Coach Ryan's team. Had not Taft been in the Wisconsin backfield this season it is a safe bet that there would not have been much yardage chalked up on the Cardinal's side of the scoreboard. Taft has been the mainstay of Wisconsin, that is certain, in addition to his kicking and his running, he can pass to perfection. Thus he is dangerous both on the offense and on the defense, which gives him preference over all others.

Sectional Games

Featured Season

New York—Inter-sectional football furnished many of the thrills of the 1923 gridiron season.

Easterners will not soon forget Notre Dame's eastern journey, when in two weeks it defeated West Point and Princeton; middle westerners will remember the visit of Syracuse to Nebraska to defeat an eleven which had taken Notre Dame's measure; far westerners will recall with bitterness Gonzaga's defeat by Detroit. All told, 47 contests involving teams from rival sections of the land have been played this season. Eastern teams won 14 of 20 games from southern opponents and won 10 and tied two with middle westerners, scoring a total of 844 points to the combined southern and middle western total of 368.

"The Store of a Thousand Useful Gifts"

DAINTY SILK LINGERIE

The Feminine Favorite

A GIFT of pretty Lingerie always carries a compliment with it—a compliment to the lady's daintiness. Gowns, chemises and step-ins of silk, filmy and fluffy, have a fascination for every woman. There's a bit of hope in every heart that this Christmas will bring flocks of Lingerie. Where colors are softest, laces are finest and garments most temptingly styled—that's where the woman would go to choose for herself and that's why you are urged to select your Lingerie presents here—to please her most fully.
